Moses Brown of Rye Before the Portsmouth Police Court on a Serious Charge of Cruelty

The case from Rye, brought to the attention of the authorities on Wednesday, took up the whole forenoon in police court today.

Moses Brown, aged 73, a well-to-do farmer of that town, was heard on two complaints, one charging him with striking his insane son Charles with a club, and the other charge was in the nature of abuse by chaining his hands and feet.

The principal witnesses against the father were the mother, Henrietta Brown, daughter Marietta Brown, and granddaughter, Gladys Boyce.

Mrs. Brown said the boy's condition was due to snatching, that he had been kept in an ell room over the kitchen where the windows were boarded up tight and the boy had no light at times, and that he had been chained to the floor nearly one year. In this position he was unable to stand up straight and in trying to free himself from the chains he had torn the nails from his ties.

"My husband has treated him most cruelly," she said. She testified that he beat his son over the head and horsewhipped him. Charles' wrists were so bad from the chains we thought he would lose his hands."

She told that her husband made the statement that he wanted the boy to die and said he would kill her for taking the boy's part. At one time the boy was taken out and tied to a tree like an animal, and he got his other son, Harrison, to come over to the house and bang Charles' head against the floor. "I rejoiced when my husband was arrested and gave a cheer as the officers carried him away. I said Hooray for justice."

In regard to her married life she admitted it was not happy and said she was only married a month when he dragged her through the woods.

"It should have been divorced from him long ago." When questioned about her property she replied by saying: "Don't ask me any more such questions; it's the meanest thing I ever heard of."

She admitted that her daughter influenced her in this case.

Deputy Sheriff Nelson was the most important witness for the

NO CHOICE For Governor on First Ballot

Mayor Hackett Presiding over Republican State Convention

There was no choice but Quincy led on the first ballot for a candidate for governor at the New Hampshire Republican state convention at Concord this afternoon. The first ballot was announced at forty-five minutes past two o'clock as follows:

Total votes	788
Necessary for choice	395
Charles H. Greenleaf	2
William E. Chandler	3
Edmund S. Cook	16
Bertram L. Ellis	113
Rosecrans W. Pillsbury	252
Henry B. Quincy	372

The two others of Quincy came over from Laconia with a band and they in turn merry about the hotel and across the streets. The Pillsbury supporters from Laconia with a band also were on the ground early and they stayed as long as the Laconia crowd.

The election in his own caucus of the Hon. Harry M. Cheney, of Laconia, who was a candidate for delegate to the state convention caused some little consternation among the members of the state committee, which had designated Mr. Cheney as the presiding officer of the state convention. This little office has always been performed by the state committee far in advance of convention time, and in the past the man thus selected has acted even though memberless. In the convention had to be gained by the use of proxy. Under the new by-laws are a ring of the past and some bidding officer will have to be named in Mr. Cheney's place.

Sacrament E. Burroughs of Manchester presented the name of Rosecrans W. Pillsbury of Derry.

Gale Sheld of Keene presented the name of Bertram L. Ellis of Keene.

The Republican state convention brought to Concord the largest night before crowd for many years and the excitement even exceeds that of two years ago.

The delegates and their alternates began to arrive early in the day and at six o'clock the greater number were in the city and at nine o'clock practically every state delegate was there. In addition every politician of note in the state came up to see that there was the proper amount of excitement and they made everything to go on in this respect.

The two others of Quincy came over from Laconia with a band and they in turn merry about the hotel and across the streets. The Pillsbury supporters from Laconia with a band also were on the ground early and they stayed as long as the Laconia crowd.

The election in his own caucus of the Hon. Harry M. Cheney, of Laconia, who was a candidate for delegate to the state convention caused some little consternation among the members of the state committee, which had designated Mr. Cheney as the presiding officer of the state convention. In the convention had to be gained by the use of proxy. Under the new by-laws are a ring of the past and some bidding officer will have to be named in Mr. Cheney's place.

This situation caused considerable feeling and the representatives of the three known candidates held a long meeting on Tuesday evening, but adjourned without agreeing on anybody and not until Wednesday evening that the name of Mayor Wallace Hackett of Portsmouth was chosen as the presiding officer.

The convention will be opened at Phenix hall at eleven o'clock this forenoon.

"Up-stairs, down-stairs, in my lady's chamber," in cottage, flat or mansion, the very furniture that's needed is gathered here.

It is a quite wonderful collection, for though the variety is so wide, there is not a piece that but will stand the most rigid test of worthiness—there is not a piece that is not priced as low, if not lower, than its match anywhere. Come and see.

HIBERNIAN OFFICERS

Those Chosen at the Grand Lodge Meeting Held in Keene

The State Conventions of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and of the Ladleaux Auxiliary held at Keene closed on Wednesday night with a banquet, at which the principal speakers were National President Mathew Cummings of Boston, Mayor M. B. V. Clark, Dr. T. A. McCarthy of Nashua and Mrs. P. J. Sheridan of Claremont.

The Hibernians elected:

President—Dennis M. Pendleton, (elected)

Vice president—James J. White Keene.

Secretary—Bernard J. O'Connor, Concord.

Chaplain—Rev. Mathew Creamer, Manchester.

The officers of the Ladleaux auxiliary were chosen as follows:

President—Mrs. Dennis J. Foley, Keene.

Vice president—Mrs. William Dillon, Nashua.

Secretary—Mrs. Mary Clancy, Concord.

Treasurer—Miss Katherine Casey, Milford.

AT THE NAVY YARD.

Besides many good musicians on the receiving ship Southery, the vessel has a variety of excellent comedians who are far better than many of the profession who are doing a turn before the footlights.

The Marine band is still short of the necessary membership.

The force of shipkeepers on duty at the yard number twelve.

The orders issued on Wednesday have put the employees on the hot foot when moving from place to place about the yard.

Recorder Robert G. Rowe of the board of labor is enjoying a short vacation.

Only two more half holidays for employees who have certainly enjoyed good weather on most every Saturday during the months of July, August and September.

Medical Director H. Wells has been detached from the navy recruiting station at New York and ordered to relieve Medical Director John M. Steele in command of the naval hospital.

BIG POTATO BUSINESS

The Crop in Maine is Large and Extra Trains on Railroad Are Required to Haul the Vegetables.

Very few people have any idea of the great number of potatoes that are daily passing through this city from the fields of Maine over the lines of the Boston and Maine railroad for western markets and as export freight.

Between four o'clock on Monday afternoon and Wednesday eight extra freights went west with 250 cars containing collectively over 110,000 bushels of spuds.

There are many prominent editors of religious publications in this city to attend the Centennial celebration.

NEW SURGEON GENERAL

A Position Much Sought After In United States Army

Washington, Sept. 17.—Who will be the next surgeon general of the United States Army is the question now most asked by officers in the Medical Corps, U. S. A., and nearly every medical colonel in the service, a few lieutenant colonels, and a major or two are among those whose names have been associated with the appointment that President Roosevelt will have to make about four months hence, when Brigadier General Robert M. O'Reilly, the present surgeon general, will retire. One of those whose names have been mentioned as available for the position is Colonel John Van R. Hoff, a New Yorker, who is making a splendid record in the Philippines, and who will not reach the age of retiring until 1912. Colonel William C. Gorgas, whose work in the Panama Canal zone has attracted the attention of the medical profession the world over, and who is perhaps the most famous of living army doctors, is another whose name has been considered. Colonel Gorgas comes from Alabama, and if he becomes surgeon general would have to sacrifice about $10,000 a year, that being the difference between the salary of the chief medical officer of the Canal Zone and the surgeon general of the army.

Colonel Hoff, who is apparently the choice of a large part of the medical branch of the service, his friends say, is not an active candidate for the position. They say he simply stands on his record, which everybody agrees is one of the most brilliant of any medical officer now in the army. Colonel Hoff has accomplished wonders in the Philippines, and there is no doubt that his appointment would give general satisfaction. Colonel Joseph H. Girard, who was born in France and who is also in line for the place, is another medical officer with a fine record, as is also Colonel Valery Baccard, who was also born in France, but who was appointed to the army from New York. Colonel Girard was appointed from Michigan.

Should Colonel Gorgas get the assignment he would hold the position for ten years, as he is the youngest colonel in the Medical Corps and will not reach the retiring age until 1918. Lieutenant Colonel Charles Richard, who is the same age as Colonel Gorgas, and who is one of the best known surgeons in the army is another man whose friends say would acceptably fill the position of surgeon general, as is also Colonel Louis M. Muns, who retires in 1915. Major Charles E. Woodruff, who is as famous as Gorgas and a writer on medical topics known the world over, is another, as also Lieutenant Colonel George H. Turner.

BORN IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

Father of Governor of Georgia Who Has Died at Atlanta

H. Hildreth Smith, father of Governor Hoke Smith of Georgia, who died at Atlanta on Monday, was born in Deerfield, the ninth of the eleven children of William T. and Martha (Ambrose) Smith. His grandfather, William Smith, removed from Salisbury, Mass., to Deerfield in 1774. He was a man of considerable note, serving in the Revolution as a lieutenant. He was afterward a colonel in the militia.

H. Hildreth Smith, went south in early manhood and had a long and successful career as an educator in Tennessee and Georgia. A sister, Miss Elizabeth J. Smith, was long prominently identified with the Pecker College Institute at Brooklyn.

GOVERNOR URGED TO SEND TROOPS

Strike of Railroad Machinists May Lead to Trouble at Henderson, Me.

Henderson, Me., Sept. 17.—The strike of machinists along the lines of the Canadian Pacific railroad, which took almost 100 men out of the shops here, threatens seriously to disrupt the peaceful routine of this little town.

The railway shop officials have opposed to them two distinct forces having no common cause. So serious is the situation regarded that the members of company F, 2d regiment, have been ordered to be in readiness.

The arrival of about 60 laborers, who were refused work at the shops because they were unskilled, has done more to cause trouble than any other factor. These men have

WATER FAMINE IN VERMONT IS AT SERIOUS STAGE

Montpelier, Vt., Sept. 17.—Low water conditions prevail throughout the northern part of Vermont, causing a shutdown of many industries dependent upon water power for their operation and entailing of the use of water generally by families and manufacturers.

Montpelier's commercial supply has been probably the most seriously affected of any in the state, the extensive quarry interests here being forced to cease work entirely.

Eight plants have been shut down in this city, their supply of electricity, which is generated by water power, having run down. The Consolidated Lighting Company at Bellows Falls, upon which the electric railroad, street lighting system and numerous motors depend for power, has been practically exhausted and the steam plant here with limited capacity is unable to care for the many industries.

Those manufacturers who have not closed down entirely are working their plants only alternate days. Strict economy is being exercised everywhere.

Berlin Pond, the source of the city's water supply, has fortunately held out up to the present time, although it is falling every day being at present more than a foot and a half below normal. The plumbing inspectors and water commissioners are investigating pipes everywhere, in search for leaks which would tend to still further deplete the supply.

The fire department in Berlin and Montpelier have been forced to take extra precautions, as in case of fire, with the low state of the water, it is doubtful if sufficient pressure could be obtained to quench a blaze.

NEW YORK DEMOCRATS CLOSE THEIR TICKET

Rochester, Sept. 17.—In the Democratic convention Wednesday, Lewis Stuyvesant Chamber was nominated for Governor and John D. Dix for Lieutenant Governor, both by acclamation.

The full state ticket put in nomination was as follows:

Governor, Lewis Stuyvesant Chamber of Dutchess county.

Lieutenant governor, John A. Dix of Washington.

Secretary of state, John S. Watson of Monroe.

Attorney general, George M. Palmer of Schenectady.

Comptroller, Martin H. Glynn of Albany.

State engineer and surveyor, Philip P. Farley of Brooklyn.

Treasurer, Julius Hause of Suffolks.

Accidents will happen, but the best-regulated families keep Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil for such emergencies. It subdues the pain and heals the hurts.

WITH THE THEATRICAL FOX

Fenberg Stock Next Week

The opening play selected by Manager Fenberg for next Monday will be Hal Riep's great four act melodrama, written around the events connected with the Madison Square roof garden tragedy, when Harry Thaw shot and killed Stanford White. This case perhaps was one of the most noted of its kind that was ever brought before the public and even now has not been settled.

The story of that much talked of tragedy is said to be depicted in a most graphic manner and to be replete with exciting incidents and melodramatic climaxes with the scenes laid in the interesting localities in New York that have been made famous by the interest created through the incidents of the tragedy. Among them are included the Archer Line docks, Madison Square roof garden and the cell house of New York's famous prison, the Tombs.

Marion Snow, the clever leading man, will portray the character of Harold Dow, the young millionaire.

Coming, The Lion and the Mouse

Charles Klein is one of the few American playwrights whose efforts have met with enduring success. "Heartbreak," produced by Henry Miller has served as a relatively popular vehicle for this actor. "The Captain," which he wrote in conjunction with John Philip Sousa, furnished De Wolf Hopper with his greatest success. The same may be said of "A Royal Rogue" written by Jefferson De Angelis; with Lee Aaker he collaborated on "The American," in which David Warfield made his stellar debut. For this actor he wrote "The Music Master," and now "The Lion and the Mouse," the greatest success in theatrical history.

Knapp's Millionaire Band

What will undoubtedly be a treat for lovers of good music is announced in the coming engagement of Knapp's Millionaire band at Music Hall on Oct. 14.

This new organization created a future in musical circles wherever it has been heard, due not only to the brilliant personality of its founder, Charles P. Knapp, but to the unusual excellence of its individual members. It is composed of forty soloists and each one is actually a soloist in every sense of the word.

Mr. Knapp, or "Charlie" Knapp, as he is more often termed by his friends and admirers, is a millionaire banker and publisher of Binghamton and Deposit, N. Y. He has one hobby. That hobby is music and the one hobby horse he rides more than any other is his band. He has spent money lavishly in its organization and equipment and the result has been that from the very start the band has established a record of achievements.

A FOLIATED FAIRYLAND

Wonderful Autumnal Color Carnival It Now to be Enjoyed in the White Mountains

Bethlehem, N. H., Sept. 17.—Nature's wonderful autumnal carnival of color is now in full progress, up here in the White Mountains of New Hampshire. The first carriages of the frost king were felt by the maple and beeches about the ninth of September. Day by day the early patches of red and yellow and brown have extended their area, until now the entire mountain region has fallen under the spell of the Great painter, and grim Mt. Washington comes through the Fall River line or the all-water route on the Yale or Harvard famous new steamship of the Metropolitan Line, landing in Boston on Sunday morning.

The ride from Boston to Albany takes the traveler through one of the most beautiful landscape sections of New England, the Berkshires of western Massachusetts. The route is along the picturesque valley of the Westfield river.

Probably the interest of a trip down the Hudson by daylight is more compelling and intensive than for a like distance in any other part of America.

The return to Boston is via the bewitching steamboat route of Long Island Sound.

love and understand the mountains are now on the way to their favorite haunts, to spend the summer end in the most exhilarating and healthful of outdoor pastimes—mountain climbing, driving, golfing, auto-camping, fishing and shooting.

These end-of-the-season vacationists practically form a class by themselves, and it is for their convenience that the great mountain hotels now keep open until early in October, when they formerly closed their doors in the early part of September.

There is no part of the White Mountain region—or for that matter, of the Green Mountains of Vermont—where one may not enjoy to the full the surpassing loveliness of the autumn foliage, dressing the hill slopes with kaleidoscopic crimson and yellow and lighting up the deepest and darkest valleys and ravines with its dazzling mazey.

The Crawford, Franconia, Pinkham and Carter Notches lend themselves particularly well to this marvellous fall display of color and contrast—for vivid, indeed, is the contrast between the brilliant colors of the maples and the somber green of the pines and firs. More amplified views of the color carnival may be enjoyed from such places as Jefferson, Bretton Woods and Bethlehem. Fortunate is the visitor who can view the incomparable picture from each and all of these vantage points.

This, too, is the season of magnificent sunsets and sunrises in the mountains; and as for the moonlight effects, their impression upon the human mind during this outdoor festival of color can much better be imagined than described. Beautiful, fantastic and weird, the spectacle can only be compared to a glorified fairytale.

To add to the zest of the thine social life in the White Mountains is still in full swing and golf, tennis, baseball and bowling tournaments and contests are everywhere being held. Under the auspices of the Bay State Automobile Association, there is to be an endurance run of motor cars from Boston to the White Mountains and return Sept. 23, and much interest centers in this event.

Trampers are meanwhile busily engaged in testing new and old trails through the mountains and to make things all the more interesting, several driving and walking parties have had exciting but harmless adventures with black bears this month. Deer have also been frequently encountered on the trails.

Altogether the mountains are about as idealized to travel as they are to buy fever.

Beautiful Five Dollar Excursion by Rail and Steamboat

It will cost five dollars, and it is well worth it, to take the Hudson river and New York excursion from Boston on Oct. 5.

The Boston and Albany autumnal excursion special express train will leave Boston South station at 8:30 a. m. The route is through the beautiful Berkshires to Albany, with stop over night if desired, thence via commodious steamers down the Hudson river to New York.

The return will be either via the palatial steamers of the Fall River line or the all-water route on the Yale or Harvard famous new steamship of the Metropolitan Line, landing in Boston on Sunday morning.

HOME RULE FOR IRELAND.

Will Come Within Fifteen Years, Says Redmond.

AMERICANS ARE FACTORS.

Their Endorsement of Claims of Emerald Isle Has Had Effect Upon British Statesmen--Ireland Not Fundamentally an Agricultural Country and Will Yet Take Her Proper Place in Manufactures.

New York, Sept. 17.—"The success of the home rule movement is no longer in doubt. Thanks to the splendid moral support of the United States and of the various British colonies, Ireland will enjoy self-government in less than fifteen years."

This was the confident statement made by John Redmond, the Irish Nationalist leader and member of parliament, who is here for a three weeks' visit.

"Nothing has done so much to bring the British cabinet to a tolerant view of the Irish home rule question," continued Redmond, "as the open sympathy with which the public men of the United States have voted our cause. The public opinion of the world, and particularly of the Anglo-Saxon race, has shamed the British cabinet into making concessions to the cause of home rule which, in their aggregate, constitute almost a revolution."

"The new land law is a big step in the direction of self-government. Where in the past the tenant had no encouragement whatever to increase the productiveness of the land, he now has an incentive—the prospect of eventually owning the land himself."

"Another evidence of the gradual abandonment of the policy of oppression by the governing party is to be found in the recent granting to Ireland of an educational fund of $720,000 a year and the authorization of a free national university. All these are signs that show the trend of public feeling in England. The Irish Nationalists are strong in parliament and are now in a position to demand and obtain consideration. We want to make them stronger."

"The endorsement of such men as President Roosevelt and Mr. Bryan has done us world of good at home. The consciousness that persistence in the refusal to grant absolute autonomy to Ireland is looked upon with disfavor by the people of the United States has had a deterring effect upon British statesmen, who normally would have persisted in their policy of subjection. A few more years of this intangible, but irresistible, pressure will bring about full recognition of our rights. In less than fifteen years I expect to see Ireland occupy the same place relative to Great Britain which New York state occupies towards the United States."

"The industrial renaissance of Ireland, which is already in progress, I look to see materially quickened by the establishment in Ireland of factories financed by Irish-Americans whom the new British patent law now compels to manufacture in Great Britain. The impression that Ireland is fundamentally an agricultural country is not justified. Ireland has been made agricultural artificially by act of British parliament 200 years ago, which suppressed all factories then in existence. A protective tariff of 500 percent against Irish manufactured goods was imposed, and, naturally, the factories had to close."

"These restrictions no longer exist, however, and it is now only a question of time before new industries are started. With the building of new factories, with the coincident opportunity for work which they will afford, a strong incentive for emigration will be removed. Already the emigration movement is showing signs of abatement."

Mr. Redmond was asked to give his appreciation of the importance and value of the Sinn Fein movement, which also proclaims self-government for Ireland as its chief object. "They represent a class," said he, "who advocate the freedom of Ireland by force of arms. I have the highest respect for their intentions, but very little for their common sense. I prefer not to wait until Ireland has an army and a fleet strong enough to subdue England."

DANCE ON BATTLESHIP.

Albany, West Australia, Sept. 17.—There was a reception and dance on board the battleship Connecticut, given by the officers to return for the hospitality that they have received on shore. Among those present were the governor and the premier of Western Australia. The occasion was an unqualified success.

PRIEST A SUICIDE.

New York, Sept. 17.—Father Arturo Asenjo, priest from Santo Domingo, who was found unconscious in Central Park with a bullet wound in his head, died from his injuries. Coroner's physician Schmitz performed an autopsy on the body and gave it as his opinion that it was a case of suicide.

CHOLERA IN MANILA.

Manila, Sept. 17.—Thirty-one cases of cholera have been reported in this city in all, and the death record up to the present time is twelve.

GREET HIS NEIGHBORS.

President Roosevelt Tenders Reception to Oyster Bay Townspeople.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Today is the day of all days for Oyster Bay. Every person in the village, be it elected in station or the most lowly, was invited to attend a reception at President Roosevelt's mansion on Sagamore Hill. President and Mrs. Roosevelt greeted the townspeople and light refreshments were served.

Four years ago Mr. Roosevelt invited the townspeople to a reception at Sagamore Hill and on that occasion a huge punch bowl, kept ever filled, stood where all could conveniently reach it and each of the 2000 or more people who attended the reception were permitted to keep the punch glasses as souvenirs.

This being President Roosevelt's last year in office, he wishes to renew old acquaintances, for, during the last few years, he has been compelled by press of business to shut himself off, to a great extent, from his friends and neighbors at Oyster Bay. As only townspeople were permitted to attend the reception today, it is estimated that not more than 1200 people were present.

ORGANIZED HUNT TO BE GIVEN UP.

Mystery Still Surrounds Miss Hilbert's Disappearance.

Northampton, Mass., Sept. 17.—Wearied and disengaged with their unsuccessful search for Miss Esther Hilbert, the young Philadelphia student who disappeared from her mother's summer home at Chesterfield Sunday, the party of 100 men who went out early yesterday to look for the girl returned last night. Officer McKay of the state police said that the woods, rivers, and ponds in the neighborhood had been examined thoroughly for three days, and that as no trace of the girl had been found organized search would be given up.

John C. Hilbert, the girl's father, is firm in the belief that his daughter has met her death either by suicide or foul play and that her body is in some secluded spot somewhere in the neighborhood. While no opinion on this point can be obtained from the police, it is understood that some of them think that the girl is still alive.

ALLEGED ABUSE OF POWERS.

Boston, Sept. 17.—Charged with cruelty to their polo ponies in a match played at the Myopia Hunt Club in Hamilton, summons were served on Allan Forbes and M. Stephenson by agents for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, which brings the complaint. Both polo players belong to wealthy and aristocratic families. The summonses were served immediately after a polo match at Myopia, and every effort was made to keep the fact secret.

BOYS STARTED BIG FIRE.

Bangor, Me., Sept. 17.—Fire which was set by two small boys in a pile of gasoline in the woodyard of Bacon & Robinson here destroyed the woodyard, burned one dwelling, gutted five others and damaged six. Everything was dry and the flames spread rapidly. The work of the Bangor department was seriously hampered by lack of serviceable hose and by weak water pressure. The loss will be between $10,000 and $10,000.

HURRICANE'S COURSE.

Washington, Sept. 17.—The West Indian hurricane passed over the Bahama Islands yesterday, according to reports received at the weather bureau, and is moving toward Newfoundland Banks. The hurricane will hardly lose any of its energy during its progress toward the Newfoundland coast. Yes, sea owners have been notified of the probable course of the hurricane.

PRINCE WANTS FREEDOM.

Paris, Sept. 17.—It is understood that Prince Robert de Broglie, while admitting that he has left his wife, denies the intention attributed to him of suing her for divorce. He says that he will not oppose a divorce suit brought by the princess, who was Estelle Alexander of San Francisco. She first married Sydney R. Velt in Chicago, from whom she was divorced.

DEEP DIVE BY OCTOPUS.

BRYAN INVADES EMPIRE STATE.

Nominee Greeted by Immense Crowds.

A SPEECH AT ROCHESTER.

Says Taft Has Abandoned Hope of Convincing Public of Righteousness of His Position--Touches Upon Labor Question and Says His Opponent Is Lukewarm on Tariff Reform--About the Panic.

Rochester, Sept. 17.—A speech made by W. J. Bryan on "Mr. Taft and His Scars" and two overflow talks formed the climax of an eventful day in the present campaign. Arriving here shortly after 6 o'clock and met by thousands of persons, Democracy's leader was accorded an ovation.

Along with him from Syracuse came Lewis S. Chandler, who was literally lifted out of an automobile in the street by the great throng which had assembled to catch a view of Bryan.

The principal speech was in convention hall, where the Democratic state convention, which opened in the field a state ticket and a nomine for representative-at-large in congress, was a convention in which one man in a single respect stood upon the platform almost absolute master of the situation, and the master because his own interests were at stake.

That man was former Governor Thomas M. Wattier, whom nearly every delegate in the convention wanted to have nominated for governor, but who found it a physical impossibility to respond to the call of the party. He bore the brunt of the battle, and by his speech, given with much of the old-time vigor with many of the quips and quirks which years ago made him the ideal campaign speaker before a convenient political audience, led the delegates from their intentions and made them rally almost to a man in the name of Judge A. Robertson of New Haven for governor. The rest of the ticket is as follows:

Lieutenant governor, R. C. Tyler; secretary of state, A. J. Brethour; state treasurer, George Mischler; state comptroller, J. M. Brady; congressman-at-large, Christopher Avery.

The platform is one of the longest documents of its kind ever passed upon by a convention in the state. Fifteen of its sixteen planks are given up to state issues.

WON'T VISIT NEW ENGLAND.

Chelmsford, Sept. 17.—WILLIAM H. Taft will make three campaign tours. His first will begin here Sept. 23 and end Oct. 7 at Galesburg, Ills. The trip will take him through Wisconsin, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Iowa, Nebraska, Colorado, Kansas and Mississippi.

"On the labor question he declares that our demands for a trial by jury in cases of indirect contempt is the most insidious attack upon the judicial system in the history of the country. According to Mr. Taft, it would very much impair the administration of justice. He seems to forget that the very reform which we endorse was endorsed by the United States Senate twelve years ago, and that it was supported by such Republicans as Senator Sherman of Ohio, Senator Allison of Iowa, Senator Hale of Maine, Senator Hawley of Connecticut, Senator Morris of Vermont and Senator Knute Nelson of Minnesota. Mr. Taft may be willing to bring his indictment against the Democratic party, but is he prepared to include in his indictment the prominent Republicans whose names I have just mentioned?

"Mr. Taft began his candidacy a year ago as a champion of tariff reform, but each month has witnessed a lessening of his zeal until now his temperature, measured by the tariff reform thermometer, is close to zero.

"There is only one way in which the last full's point can be charged to the Democrats, and that is to say that the people saw last fall that the Democrats were going to win this fall and had their party in advance of the election. And now, as they did not predict more than one point for a Democratic administration, if we have already had our Democratic point in anticipation, why not go ahead and have the blessings of a Democratic administration?"

Mr. Bryan's journey through the Empire state was a triumph one, for everywhere immense crowds greeted him with cheering and the waving of flags and banners. At each place a speech was insisted on, and when he had gotten through the day he had spoken seventeen times.

The Democratic platform was the weapon with which he sought to convince his hearers of the righteousness of the Democratic cause. He never lost an opportunity to lay both President Roosevelt and Taft.

CHANLON AND DIX.

Men Nominated by New York Democrats to Head Their Ticket.

Rochester, Sept. 17.—Nominating all but one of its candidates by acclamation and placing them in the field on a platform which scathingly arraigned the administration of Governor Hughes and pledges earnest support to the Democratic platform and candidates, the Democratic state convention nominated as the head of its ticket for governor the present Lieutenant governor of the state, Lewis S. Chandler.

The ticket, with one exception, seemed to meet the approval of all the delegates, and the nominating session was marked by great enthusiasm until the office of state engineer and surveyor was reached. The conference candidate for this office was Philip P. Farley of Brooklyn, an anti-McCormick man. The previous harmony of the convention was disturbed when his name was reached and McCormick took the platform "to resent an insult." Leonard C. Smith of Long Island City was nominated in opposition to Farley, but the latter won on roll-call by 321 to 1. A motion to make the nomination unanimous was lost by two or three scatterd votes.

The following slate was ratified by the convention:

Governor, Lewis S. Chandler; Lieutenant governor, John A. Dix; secretary of state, J. S. Whiting; comptroller, M. H. Glynn; attorney general, G. M. Palmer; treasurer, Julius Hansen; state engineer and surveyor, P. P. Farley.

The selection by the leaders of Dix as the candidate for Lieutenant governor came as a big surprise, as it had been taken for granted that Francis B. Harrison of New York would be the choice. It is believed that the leaders desired to strengthen the ticket by naming a far up-state man, and Harrison preferred to remain in congress.

Waller the Central Figure of Connecticut Democratic Convention.

Hartford, Sept. 17.—The Democratic state convention, which opened in the field a state ticket and a nomine for representative-at-large in congress, was a convention in which one man in a single respect stood upon the platform almost absolute master of the situation, and the master because his own interests were at stake.

SAFE AND SANE

Politics is getting to be a failure
as a diversion.

There was not a single torchlight parade in Maine during the remarkable activity of the state campaign. The band and the glee club were conspicuously absent.

Yet people went to the partisan rallies just the same as they used to do and went with the understanding that the rallies were not entertainments.

The personal abuse and the in-nuendos were not nearly so frequent as in the past, though some decidedly unseemly instances are recorded of such things.

Mostly the arguments against candidates have, though severe, been based upon questions of the public record or governmental policy of the men attacked. That is as the public is learning to like to have it.

Political campaigning has ceased to be entertainment for the people.

Talking politics is equivalent to talking business. The people so regard it.

That is the way the people of Maine have shown that they so regard it, and there is plenty of evidence that New Hampshire voters hold the same opinion.

Let the New Hampshire campaigners govern themselves accordingly.

It is pretty good too, for that is it of a people's business interest in the government will to far toward making the government what it should be.

BIRD'S-EYE VIEWS

The Philadelphia Press must look far into the future when it predicts that the United States government will some day be preventing floods
by the erection of immense storage reservoirs in the mountains of the eastern states. The Press thinks that such an undertaking would be as legitimate as the building of storage reservoirs in the western states for irrigation purposes.

If for any unforeseen reason the rubber industry in Hawaii should prove to be a failure, it will be a failure worth recording, for up to the present time not less than half a million dollars have been invested by five different companies and a large number of individual planters.
Not a pound of the product has yet been marketed, but within another year or two there should be some kind of showing.

The twenty-eighth annual meeting of the Eastman Family Association of the United States, will be held at the First Baptist church, Concord, on Thursday, Oct. 1.

The First New Hampshire Veteran Battery Association will hold its annual reunion in Manchester on Saturday, Sept. 26, at the state Armory.

The Newburyport and Salem papers are getting up considerable agitation in favor of Essex county having one of the new agricultural schools which are to be established by the state of Massachusetts.

A fashion paper asserts that the skirt pocket is coming in and many of the latest skirts show it. The pocket is a patch one and is placed on either side of the skirt. It will probably appear on many smart fall models, for it eliminates the need for the troublesome handbag. Now, will somebody tell if this will make it possible for a man to find a woman's pocket.

The judge of the Portland mounting court has sentenced a man to three months in jail for refusing to support his family.

There is point to the story of the man who, willing to rebuke his wife's taste in millinery, called her attention to the number of birds which are slaughtered for plumes. Her answer was, "Do you play billiards?" She referred, of course, to the numbers of elephants which are killed every year for ivory. The man might, in turn, have retorted, "Do you play the piano?"
for both sexes and many industries are responsible for the drain upon ivory. It is nevertheless a fact that the making of billiard balls calls for the greatest quantity and finest quality of ivory. A man who makes his living by hunting and buying ivory in Africa has related some of his experiences in Everybody's Magazine.
One of the illustrations shows a heap
of 20,000 billiard balls, worth $80,000.
Since only five perfect balls can be cut from the largest task, the heap represents the death of 2,000 elephants. No person of feeling can help regretting such a fact. Within a few years regulations have been established for the protection of the big game in some parts of Africa, but in spite of this the supply of ivory is decreasing rapidly.

Arrangements are rapidly making to take advantage of the new emergency currency law. The Bureau of printing and engraving is busy making the plates for the new currency, and the national banks in the large cities are forming associations to take charge of the new issues in their territory.
Plans will be perfected and the currency ready for issue by the time it will be needed for moving the crops in the autumn. As the prospect for unusually large crops is good, the demand for money is likely to be very great. Fortunately, this year there is no danger of a money famine simultaneously with agricultural plenty.

A western judge decides that Adam and Eve were married under the common law and legally bound, though there were no witnesses. The venerable couple on the other side of the big divide are thus made to feel easier and rascous demonstrations on the part of their descendants in the west are avoided.

At the meeting of the Plimsgate board of guardians the clock reported the death of George Smith, who, he stated, had been an inmate of the workhouse for more than 70 years.

A woman in New York has posed as a man for nine years. You see she was able to conceal her identity because nobody ever noticed her getting off a street car.

on Wednesday. It included four veterans of last year, Dowling, Dunn, Shurman and Rossell. Duties incident to the opening of the school year prevented the attendance of other veterans, and as registration was in progress the squad was necessarily small. It was given light work, mainly in kicking and passing under the direction of coach John B. Glaze and trainer Connors.

Spectators included three former players, Peyton of the Yale crew, Hart of Princeton, and Berne, who will enter Bushnell life. He originally planned to attend Williams this fall.
A meeting will be held at one to choose a successor to Capt. John

ENGLAND'S PATENT LAW

Inventor Must Manufacture in England to be Protected

London, Sept. 16.—It is announced that a syndicate of British firms is being formed with a large capital to seize the rights in foreign patents which may lapse under the new Patent Act through foreign firms neglecting to operate their patents in Great Britain.

The new British Patent Act was passed on Aug. 28, 1907, but did not go into effect until Aug. 28 of this year. Although it has many new features, the one which chiefly interests America is that concerning the working of patents taken out by foreigners in Great Britain. Here-fore an American might patent an invention in the United States and in Great Britain. He might manufacture in the United States only, but his British patent would protect his rights in Great Britain.
If Englishmen wanted to buy the patented article they had to import it from the United States. The new act of Parliament has revolutionized conditions in the United Kingdom.
It provides that the owner of a patent taken out in England must operate in that country—ownership and control of a patent in British territory being conditioned henceforth upon its use within the territory protecting the patent. Germany and France have long enforced laws similar to that lately enacted by the British Parliament. By means of these laws they have compelled the British owner of a French or German patent to manufacture under his patent rights in France and Germany to a certain extent. At the same time German and French manufacturers have flooded the British market with articles manufactured in those countries and protected from competition in England by the British patent laws. Finally the British manufacturer and the British artisan revolted against a system which operated greatly to their disadvantage and injury. And particularly, heeding their protest, has granted them the relief demanded.

In view of the new syndicate in England formed to take up unworked patents, it may prove interesting to look over the applications which have already been made under the new law by foreign firms possessing British patents. Of American patentees the United States
Shoe Machinery Company of Boston are enlarging their existing Lancaster works, the Gillette Razor Company is equipping new premises
at Sheffield, and the National Cash Register Company a factory in London. The Sanatogen Food and Pintsch Suction Gas companies complete the list. The following German firms have definitely arranged to establish works near Liverpool:
the Hochster Farwerke of Hoch-stien-on-Main; the Elberfelder Farwerke; the Badische Anilin and Soda-fabrik, Elberfeld; the Badische Anilin and Soda-fabrik, Ludwigshafen, and the Achten-Gesellschaft Bn.

Meanwhile, it is a significant fact,
in connection with the despatch appearing above, that the advertisement columns of technical and other papers publish long lists of patents for sale and of licenses to manufacture.
The patents thus advertised are of all kinds and the offers are not difficult to understand when once the fact is grasped that the court is given a certain discretion. It is required by the new law that manufacture should take place in the United Kingdom "to an adequate extent," unless satisfactory reason can be given for the contrary, and on due cause shown the date of revocation may be postponed for a year. It is evident that the patentee who has made offers to British manufacturers and has found no takers will not appear in the same light as one who has made no effort to comply with the new requirements.
Even if the price asked for a license were a high one, it might be difficult to convince the Court that the price or conditions were unreasonable.
The patent holder who has shown willingness will not be at the unrestricted mercy of anybody who chooses to put down the $10 fee for an application to revoke.

A different way around the compulsory working clause is being mediated by patentees in Germany.
In many cases all the protection required might be obtained by substituting for it a new patent embodying substantial modifications of the original. By this procedure four years of complete immunity from compulsory working are to be gained.
The perfect efficiency of this means remains to be demonstrated,
but it is quite possible that by different shifts the establishment of English works can be indefinitely postponed or put off so long that revocation of the patent would not seriously matter. The success of such a proceeding has also to be tried—for instance, that one had not the capital, that manufacture in England would add to the sale price or would prohibit business. So many chances of evading the necessity of British works exist that the absence of a rush of foreign capital is not surprising. The courts are slow, successive appeals are possible, and there is always the temptation to wait until the patent is directly mentioned before taking action. Thus a measure which was much misunderstood until lately is beginning to seem neither formidable to foreign holders nor appreciably protective British industry.

RELIGIOUS JOURNALISM CENTENNIAL IS OVER

Visitors from Other States Starting for Their Homes This Evening

The exercises closed this afternoon in connection with the celebration of the centennial of religious journalism.

Portsmouth people have learned another important item of local history. Future visitors to this city will be told the history of Rev. Elias Smith and will be shown the old house at the southeast corner of Washington and Jefferson streets where on Sept. 8, 1808, he issued the initial number of the Herald of Gospel Liberty, the first religious periodical in the world.

The visitors have included a large number of editors of religious papers and prominent clergymen of the Christian denominations.

The celebration began on Tuesday evening at the Christian church, were continued on Wednesday morning at the Methodist church, Wednesday afternoon at the Unitarian church, Wednesday evening at the Congregational church, Thursday forenoon at the Universalist church and closing this afternoon at the Christian church.

The celebration was the work of a committee of the Christian Publishing Association, which owns and publishes at Dayton, Ohio, the old paper that has become the principal denominational organ.

The speakers have come from the states of Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan and Wyoming and from the Dominion of Canada.

Wednesday Evening

The exercises Wednesday evening were held in the Congregational church and there was a good sized audience present to hear the two well-known speakers.

The exercises were opened by Rev. M. D. Wolf of Haverhill, Mass., with a devotional service and the regular church quartette sang several selections.

ANGELO PAPPI CAPTURED BY NEW JERSEY POLICE

He Is Wanted for Attempt to Kill M. F. Simpson At Raymond

The police of Newark, N. J., made a very important capture on Wednesday of a man wanted since August 28 by the Rockingham county authorities.

On that date Angelo Pappi is alleged to have attempted to kill M. F. Simpson with a razor on the street in Raymond and inflicting off the blows directed at his face and head Simpson was horribly cut on the hands and arms.

Pappi then made his escape and nothing has been heard of him until Wednesday, when Sheriff Collis was informed by wire of his arrest.

The arrest of the man came about in a peculiar way. Sheriff Collis, who has been working on the case, knew that Pappi had a bank account in the Amoskeag National bank of Manchester and he left instructions to watch out in case the man should make a withdrawal or attempt to have the money transferred.

He looked for Pappi and Pappi was caught at the game. He was anxious for the money and, while trying to get his account transferred from the Manchester banking house to the Federal Trust Company at Newark, the officers made the arrest.

Deputy Sheriff Robert Scott of Exeter will leave today with the necessary papers required to bring the man back to New Hampshire, where he will be tried for attempted murder.

THE COLE MYSTERY

His Companion It is Said Does Not Know Just When He Left Him On Sunday Night

It is said in Exeter that owing to the conflicting stories told about the disappearance of Henry C. Cole on Sunday night, the town authorities will make a thorough investigation to determine as to just how he was drowned, as it is generally supposed he was. Mr. Wilson, it is alleged, is somewhat at sea about a part of the day and especially of the evening, although he is sure that he left Cole out of his boat at the Staples landing.

STATE SHOOT

Keene Company Has Big Lead on State Range at Massabesic

Company H, First Infantry, of Keene swept up about everything in sight in Wednesday's events at the state rifle tournament at the Massabesic range, its team winning first prize in the state company team match, while members of the company won the first and second individual prizes and the National Association cup in the individual squadron match. These prizes were added to the first team prize in the regimental company team match on Tuesday and the second individual prize in that contest, making six trophies that this single company team will take home. The Keene company scored 586 at 300 and 600 yards.

The closing address was given by Rev. W. W. Staley D. D. of Suffolk, Va., who spoke on "The Progress of Religious Liberty." Rev. Staley is a well-known southern writer and preacher and his address was able and interesting.

Thursday Morning

Rev. Z. Knight of South Berwick conducted the opening devotions at the Thursday forenoon service held in the Universalist church.

Addressess of greeting were given by representatives of religious papers, Rev. A. J. Norbury, Methodist, of Dover, speaking for Zion's Herald; Rev. Alfred Gooding of Portsmouth, Unitarian, for the Christian Register.

Rev. J. P. Barrett, D. D., of Dayton, Ohio, editor of the Herald of Gospel Liberty, gave an inspiring address on "The Genius of the Christian Movement."

The Closing Session

The Christian denomination under whose direction the celebration is held, had the Thursday afternoon session held in the Christian church, Rev. H. A. Smith of Eaton, Ohio, conducted the devotional services.

Rev. J. J. Summerbell, D. D., of Dayton, Ohio, delivered a able address on Fellowship in Religious Journalism.

Rev. O. W. Powers, D. D., home mission secretary, was the closing speaker. His theme was The Press and Missions.

Shortly after three o'clock the party embarked for a tour of the navy yard, after which they separated for good.

STATE COLLEGE

Changes in the Faculty of the Institution at Durham

Since the close of the last college year in June many changes have been made in the faculty of the New Hampshire State College of Agriculture.

Prof. E. R. Groves, formerly professor of philosophy and English returns to his former position after serving two years at Dartmouth College.

Charles Elbert Hewett, a graduate of the college in 1893, who has since taken a special course at Cornell University and has been ten years in business, takes charge of the department of electrical engineering.

Forest E. Cardullo, formerly professor of mechanics in Syracuse University, succeeds Prof. Rende as the head of the mechanical engineering department.

A. Morris Buck from Cornell University becomes assistant professor of electrical engineering.

C. Floyd Jackson from De Pauw University is the new instructor in entomology.

Isaac M. Lewis from Indiana State University is the new assistant in botany.

B. S. Pickett from the Ontario Agricultural College is the new professor of horticulture.

There is also a new assistant in horticulture, William H. Wicks from Oregon.

In all, eight new instructors will greet the students this fall.

NEW CASTLE HORSE WON FIRST MONEY

Irene Owned by William Melton and Driven by Eugene McCue gets Track Record

At Newmarket fair held on Wednesday, Irene the fast mare of William Melton of New Castle, was entered in the free for all trot and she made a runaway race of it, taking the entire three heats and at the same time creating a new record for this state on a third of a mile track.

Eugene H. McCue held the reins over the New Castle horse and it was his clever driving that took the mare to a record.

The race was held on a third of a mile track and the first heat was trotted in 2.27, the second in 2.34 1-2 and the last heat in 2.33 2-1.

The summary:

Horse Driver Heats

Irene, McCue 1-1-1

Comie Mack, Kent 2-3-2

Ed. Kimball 2-2-2

ARMIES OF DEATH EVERYWHERE

Billions of Bacilli by Which Man is Surrounded.

At no instant in any man's life, waking or sleeping, is he free from assaults by swarming myriads of tiny, but powerful, unseen enemies of life—those soldiers of death's dark legions, the germs or microbes of disease. If it were possible to wear spectacles of the magnifying power of high-powered microscopes, we might see the very air we breathe thick with the monstrous shapes of untold billions of bacilli; and that in, or about, or upon the water we drink, the food we eat, the hands we shake, the ear straps we hang to when going to work, the clothes we wear, the hair we comb, the lips we kiss, the cats and dogs we fondle, the books we read—in short, always and everywhere, the armies of death surround us, and incessantly make war upon us. And not only do they attack us from every possible exterior vantage point, but they are also ever at work trying to undermine or carry by assault the citadel of life from within the lines of our own defenses. Germs thrive and multiply in the mouth, in the nose, and especially in the intestinal organs. Thus it can be said that not only do we live in the midst of death, but that death lives in our midst. The wonder is, not that we are ever ill, but that we are ever well.—Michael Williams, in Success Magazine.

AMERICAN ATHLETES THE BEST.

Reason Advanced for Superiority Over the British.

Although bigness and great strength are needed to throw the weight, relatively less essential are cleverness and technique. Footwork, distribution of the weight of the body, these and other details only instinct, long practice and intelligently directed efforts can master. And here our undergraduates have had no difficulty in surpassing their English cousins. Whenever the two have met, the performance of the more casual Oxford and Cambridge men have been almost facile, and, indeed, men like Plow, DeWitt, Beck, Sheldon and others have quite equaled the performance of all but the best of the older men of the athletic clubs. It is not, of course, any superiority in strength which has brought this about, merely painstaking thoroughness and care for "form."

SO DECEPTIVE

Many Portsmouth People Fail to Realize the Seriousness

Backache is so deceptive. It comes and goes—keeps you guessing.

Learn the cause—then cure it. Nine times out of ten it comes from the kidneys.

That's why Doan's Kidney Pills cure it.

Cure every kidney ail from backache to diabetes.

Here's a Portsmouth case to prove it:

S. R. Melton, living at 27 Union St., Portsmouth, N. H., says: "My wife has used Doan's Kidney Pills for a good many years, and if they had not helped her she would not say they were the finest thing she ever used. A long illness brought on a lame back and a soreness around the kidneys that was sure to be worse if she caught cold. Doan's Kidney Pills procured at Philbrick's drug store relieved the trouble at once. She has had attacks of a stroke, but a few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills soon make her feel all right again. She always keeps this remedy in the house as it is the best of all the many medicines she ever before used."

For sale by all dealers. Price 51 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

ROAD AND FARM IMPROVEMENT

THE GOOD ROAD.

It Can Only Be Secured by the Right Kind of Care.

Our first illustration explains why an unkempt road grows worse so rapidly. This road does not look very bad and it is true the traveled roadway was tolerably smooth and not unpleasant for driving. But let me point out a few details not observed at first sight, yet apparent when known. Glance at the hedge and you will perceive that it and its shadow obscure almost half the road, so that the traveled road is altogether to the east side of the center of the highway property.

The cutting of wheat is a small matter compared with shocking it so that it will stand the heavy rains sometimes incident to this country and also stand the fierce winds that often accompany them. After a number of years' experience in shocking wheat, writes a correspondent of Farmers' Voice, I have found that the shock constructed after this plan will stand the wind and weather better than any other kind. The shock is made of 16 bundles. Three pairs are set together in a line running north and south; then three bundles are placed to each side and one at each end of the shock, after which it is capped with two good bundles broken so as to form a kind of roof. This makes a strong shock; the caps act as a water shed, the sides of the shock being to the east and west are dried out quickly after a rain, and being set to the north and south it is better able to defy the storms that generally come from the northwest in the summer time.

As soon as the shocks are sufficiently cured after cutting the wheat should be threshed or put into long ricks, for if allowed to stand in the shock it will be injured to some degree, however good the weather may be. If the farmer has a large crop he should thresh it the first opportunity after it is ready, and then put it on the market from the machine, for it seldom pays to bulk it up and wait for a better market.

HAND OR MACHINE LABOR.

Latter Is That Which Marks the Superiority of American Agriculture.

that is, of the space between the hedge fence and the board fence, thus locating the ditch, in which are two wheels of each buggy, squarely in the center of the high highway.

An appreciation of this fact changes one's good opinion of the road instantly. The ditch is almost a gully and, on the day the picture was taken, it was dangerous to try to cross it with

It is the use of machines that has distinguished the American farmer from the farmers in some of the older countries in the world. The use of machinery has made the American farmer rich. Without it, he would have been compelled to employ very many more men to carry on the work of the farm, with the result that a very large part of the returns coming from the farm would have had to be paid out for labor.

The American farm laborer has also become a higher class worker because he has had to handle machinery. His pay, as represented in his living, has been far above that of the hired laborers on some European farms where the compensation is so low that the laborer has to live on black bread and beer. Think, says the Farmers' Review, of the American farm laborer living on black bread and beer the year around! He would revolt at once and would flee to the city.

The most successful American farmers to-day are those that have settled down to the conviction that they cannot afford to farm without the best farm machinery that can be had. The higher the price of labor the more is it necessary to secure first-class farm machinery of all kinds, that the price of the man that cannot be secured may be taken by a machine.

PERFECT GATE LATCH.

Quickly and Easily Made and Operates Perfectly.

It is perfect because it is always in order, is easy to operate and is quick and easy to make. A board 18 inches long is first nailed to the post, and a narrower piece the same length, rounded to catch the nose of the gate is nailed to its lower side.

Then to each end, as shown, is nailed a piece one inch thick by three inches wide and seven inches long. The gate, explains Farm and Home, is pushed together and slides under one of these pieces against the other, the piece it slides under dropping into place and preventing it from opening. To open the gate merely raise one piece and it will swing either way.

HINGE FROM CHAIN LINKS.

Are Very Serviceable on Small or Medium-Sized Doors.

Two links from an old chain used in driving the common grain binder or similar machines, may be utilized for making hinges for small or medium-sized doors or small gates, suggests Prairie Farmer. They are used in the manner indicated in the accompanying illustration. Place the open face side down, and secure each link to the door and side jamb with four wire staples, driving them in the corners of each link.

For very heavy doors three of these hinges may be used.

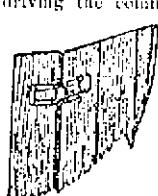

Illustration shows the hinge assembly, with the open face side down, secured to the door and side jamb with four wire staples.

The purpose of Germany's action is to remove Pimples, Blackheads, Blotches and all forms of Skin eruptions, is, according to a well known Physician, a very easy matter; he says that many are afflicted with some one of the above ailments, and are subject to a great deal of embarrassment on account of the unsightly appearance which they present, and recommends the following simple harmless and inexpensive treatment. Go to your Druggist and get this prescription filled: Cleancet one-half ounce. Ether one ounce. Alcohol seven ounces, mix, shake well and apply to the parts affected night and morning, allowing it to remain on the skin at least ten minutes, then wipe off the powder from the skin. Use a soft cloth or sponge in applying the mixture and in from ten days to two weeks your face will be smooth and clear as a mirror.

Germany's initiative explains recent hints by the Kaiser and Chancellor von Bismarck to the effect that Germany soon would show her sincerity as an advocate of peace.

MANY CRIMES IN THIS COUNTYReign of Terror in Towns Along
the Southern Border

Citizens of southern Rockingham county towns are aroused to the highest state of excitement because of Saturday's happenings at Plaistow, Hampstead and Danville, and the sheriff of Rockingham county has been asked to send his deputies into the woods between those towns in an effort to round up a gang of ruffians who are believed to have established headquarters in that neighborhood, going from their rendezvous only to range about the villages and to commit depredations along the highways. The capture of the burglar at Plaistow Saturday morning at an early hour had not become known in Hampstead and Danville when a far more serious affair was reported and within a half hour a posse of farmer-soldiers had been organized for a search for two armed highwaymen who had attacked Mrs. Ellen Dates of East Hampstead.
